MEAD

Considered to be one of the oldest alcoholic drinks, Mead is the product of combining honey and water and fermenting, often with the addition of natural flavour-ings. The Lancashire Mead Company was started by Gordon Baron in 2008, and as a Druid, it was hugely important to produce a mead as pure as it could be. The honey used is raw, un-pasteurised, un-sterilised and there are no chemical or sulphite additions. All these meads are 14.5% Alcohol by volume and can be considered a great alternative to dessert wines or sherries.

	75ml 125ml
Baldur's Mead A dry, pure honey mead, using Wildflower honey to give a deeper, earthier flavour.	6.50 10.00
Aegir's Mead A fruited honey mead, a traditional, basic recipe where tea and orange juice are added to the fermentations.	6.50 10.00
Odin's Mead A traditional herbed honey mead, the addition of tea to the fermentation gives a Whiskey-esque top palette.	6.50 10.00
Thor's Mead Another herbed honey mead, this time with the addition of Citra hops after fermentation, giving a floral, hoppy flavour that will appeal to craft beer drinkers.	7.50 11.50
Viking's Blood Mead A fruited honey mead, made using blossom honey, and fermented with a mixture of fresh hedgerow berries including blueberries, blackberries and blackcurrant.	7.50 11.50
